Vigilance Committee of "Lawabiding Residents" Is Organized.

BOMB ROCKS HOUSE

Violence Continues in Athens County; Guard Disperses Mob.

ATHENS, O., Aug. 8 — A vigilance committee "of law-abiding citizens" took the law in its own hands today to put a stop to terrorism and sabotage in the strike-ridden coal fields of Athens county.

Announcing their purpose in a full-page newspaper advertisement the committee recalled 20 instances of violence in the county since May 25, including the dynamiting of several residences while occupied by women and children.

One dynamiting was still ringing in the ears of the protesting citizens as they organized, a blast which wrecked the home of Daniel McKinley, at Jacksonville, late Saturday night.

McKinley who works at the No. 6 mine of the Sunday Creek Coal Co. at Millfield, and his wife were not at home at the time. Damage to the building was estimated between $6,000 and $7,000.

At Gloucester, O., National Guardsmen had to use tear gas bombs to disperse a disorderly crowd. The troops were called after local authorities were unable to cope with the situation.

The announcement of the vigilance committee said, "We, citizens of Athens county, feeling the present lawlessness in Athens county consisting of dynamiting property, assaulting and intimidating individuals and the ruthless destruction of property requires some concrete action on the part of our county, we have formed a vigilance committee of citizens of Athens county. Peace and harmony must and shall prevail. Athens county citizens will not tolerate the racketeer element."

Authorities attribute the dynamitings and other disturbances to the attempt of coal mine owners to operate in defiance of the several-months-old wage strike of employes. The strike was called when the owners announced a reduced scale of wages.

Veteran Captain Goes Down with Boat in Crash

By The Associated Press

SYLVAN BEACH, N. Y., Aug. 8—Like a proud old sea dog of story books, Captain L. A. Withey, age 74, refused to quit his little sight-seeing boat Agnes W when it crashed last night with 11 passengers aboard into the tug Matton a half mile out in Oneida lake, and he went down with the craft. All the passengers were saved, including a two-year-old baby and a seven year old girl.

For years Captain Withey had followed the business of conducting sight-seeing trips for excursionists.

For an hour and a half the report persisted that seven passengers and the captain had drowned. Then the aged man was found floating unconscious in a life preserver. Application of artificial respiration failed to revive him.

The boats came together about 300 feet west of the end of the barge canal pier.

NEEDY OF COUNTY TO GET MORE FLOUR

Second Consignment of 1,000 Barrels To Be Distributed Here.

Approval has been given Marion county's second requisition for Red Cross flour for the distressed, and the first shipment will arrive here between Aug. 19 and 25, it was announced this morning by Dr. N. Sifritt, Marion county chapter chairman.

The first shipment will contain 333 barrels. Other shipments scheduled to arrive Sept. 1 and Oct. 1 will contain similar amounts, rounding out a total of 1,000 barrels.

Nine thousand sacks have been distributed in the county during the last three and a half months, Dr. Sifritt said. Distribution has been made through the city poor relief department, township trustees and the Red Cross chapter.

MINISTER TO BARE DETAILS OF ROMANCE

Pastor Jailed "for Investigation" in Poisoning of Former Wife.

POLICE FREE GIRL-BRIDE

Both Husband and Wife Deny Any Connection with Death.

By The Associated Press

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Aug. 8—A grand jury investigating the death by poison of the first wife of a 52-year-old minister, was to hear today from the county attorney of the tangled romance of the preacher and his 19-year-old girl bride.

Prominent in the evidence were passionate letters and verse which authorities said the minister, S. A. Berrie, admitted he wrote to his present wife before the death of his first, last March.

Berrie was held in jail "for investigation," but County Attorney Philip Oldham ordered the girl wife released in custody of her mother, saying he thought she was "the victim of circumstances."

Admit Romance

Oldham said both had admitted a love affair prior to the death of the first Mrs. Berrie but both denied knowledge of the alleged poisoning.

Among the lines which Oldham said were penned in Berrie's hand were the following:

"To me no other one can be;
For you alone I live.
Oh, why can't we be free?"

Others told of impatience for "that blissful happy day" when they could be married.

Berrie formerly held pastorates of the Cumberland Presbyterian church here; at Tulare, Calif.; Ralls, Tex.; Fayetteville, Ark.; Raemer, Tenn., and Searcy, Ark. He founded the Bethel tabernacle here in May after the Cherokee presbytery accused him of "teaching doctrines contrary to the Presbyterian faith." Berrie has appealed his conviction, in presbyterial trial, of the charges, and the case is scheduled to come before the state synod at Marlow in October.

Wife Died Last March

The first Mrs. Berrie died last March 21 at a church gathering. On May 17, the pastor married Miss Ida Bess Bright, a Sunday school teacher in the tabernacle.

The county prosecutor said a state chemist's examination of the body of Berrie's first wife, following exhumation requested by a sister, revealed the presence of sufficient poison to cause death.

NEIGHBORS GRILLED IN MYSTERY DEATH

Fingerprints in the Slain Woman's Home Tally with Those of Recluse.

By The Associated Press

NATCHEZ, Miss., Aug. 8—Richard H. Dana and his aged housekeeper, Octavia Dockery, eccentric neighbors of the slain Jane Surget Merrill, 68-year-old recluse, were brought into the center of the investigation of the strange killing today by a tentative report of fingerprint experts.

Sheriff Roberts said he had been informed fingerprints bearing "marked resemblance" to those of Dana had been found on articles in the Merrill home.

The sheriff planned to question Dana and his housekeeper again today. They have insisted they knew nothing of the killing. Sheriff Roberts said ill feeling existed between Miss Merrill and Miss Dockery.

Officers spent Sunday searching the two ante-bellum estates, "Glenburney," the well-kept home of Miss Merrill and "Glenwood," once a show place of Natchez, but now a near ruin occupied by Dana and his housekeeper. The properties adjoin.

Near the close of the last century both the Merrill and Dana families occupied prominent social positions in Natchez, but some years ago, "Miss Jennie Merrill," a belle of the 70s, and Dick Dana retired from the world and refused to receive visitors, except a few life long associates.

LOVE FOR LANCASTER DEAD, AVIATRIX SAYS

Mrs. Keith-Miller Recalled to Stand; Turns Against Fiance, Too.

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 8—Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller testified at the murder trial of Captain W. N. Lancaster today that she had become "completely disillusioned" and no longer loved Lancaster nor the memory of Haden Clarke, her writer fiance whom Lancaster is accused of slaying.

She said she is still very fond of Lancaster, to whom she was once engaged, but that she has not loved him for two years.

"You have not said you would die for Captain Lancaster?" State Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne asked her.

"Yes."

"Would you lie for him?"

"No," she hurled back.

Called Traitor

"Weren't you a traitor to him, if you have not loved him for two years, when you wrote him constantly of your love while he was on his western trip to get the money he could for you?"

"You don't understand our situation," she answered.

The Australian aviatrix was recalled to the stand today after having testified last week as a court witness.

The state charges Lancaster killed Clarke, a writer, after the latter had replaced him in Mrs. Keith-Miller's affections.

Mrs. Keith-Miller wept on the stand as she attempted to show Hawthorne how she could be very fond of Lancaster and still not be in love with him.

She had told Haden many times before they were engaged she never expected to marry anyone, she continued, but she always felt that when Bill should be free from his

YOUTHS HELD IN STABBING

Victim Wounded Near Heart; Condition Critical in Portsmouth Hospital.

By The Associated Press

PORTSMOUTH, O., Aug. 8—Two youths accused of seriously stabbing a third young man after disarming Sheriff Edgar Sullivan of Lewis county, Ky., were under arrest in Greenup, Ky., today.

The victim, John Osborn, 19, of Tygart Creek, Ky., was taken to a Portsmouth hospital, in a critical condition with a knife wound near his heart.

The accused pair, Walter Burke, 21, and Hobart Burke, 20, were arrested two hours after the attack by Deputy Sheriff Bill Atkins of Greenup county, aided by William Ratcliff, 35, a railroad employe.

Ratcliff suffered powder burns on his arm while wresting a pistol from one of the youths.

Osborn was attacked at the conclusion of services yesterday at the Antioch Baptist church on Tygart creek. Sheriff Sullivan who attempted to halt the attack, said the Burkes took two pistols from him. When arrested the youths refused to say where they had left these guns. No charges were filed, pending the outcome of Osborn's injuries.

CHAPIN OPTIMISTIC ON ASSUMING OFFICE

New Commerce Secretary Gratified at Better Tone of Business.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8—Gratification at the "unmistakably better tone that now prevails in our industries and marts of trade" was expressed today by Roy D. Chapin as he was sworn in as secretary of commerce.

The Detroit automobile manufacturer took the oath as successor to Robert P. Lamont, who retired to resume private business.

Lamont, who was present, told Chapin he was certain every American business man approved President Hoover's selection. In reply, the new cabinet member said:

"Thank you. Like every other American, I am gratified at the unmistakably better tone that now prevails in our industries and marts of trade.

"Concerning the future trend I will not be so bold as to venture a prediction now, but one thing is very certain: we must all exert ourselves to the utmost, striving to strengthen all favorable factors and to make the inevitable 'turn' [illegible]

UNKNOWN BOY KILLED HERE

Youth Falls Under Wheels of Erie Train at Union Depot.

RELATIVES ARE SOUGHT

Body Is Severed; Two Companions Sought at Akron for Questioning.

An unidentified young man was killed instantly yesterday at 5 p. m. at the Union depot when he attempted to board a fast Erie freight train.

The accident occurred at the east end of the depot platform. Two of his companions had hopped onto the train and the young man, about 18 years of age, was following them when he missed his footing and fell beneath the wheels. His body was severed.

The only identification found in his clothing was a plate from an addressograph machine which carried the name "O. J. Lindley, Rattan, Okla."

Police officials here expressed doubt that their communication this morning with Rattan, Okla., would lead to the identification of the young man. They expressed the belief that he had picked up the plate along the road and that his home is in the east.

An attempt was being made today to reach the young men who were with him. Akron officials were asked to watch for them in the railroad yards there.

Funeral arrangements will not be made for a day or two. The body will remain at the C. E. Curtis Co. mortuary on East Center street.

GIRL FLIER DIES IN CRASH

Loop-the-Loop Record Holder for Women Killed at Kansas City.

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 8—Miss Mildred Kaufman, 25-year-old Kansas city aviatrix, died early today from injuries suffered when her monoplane locked wings with another machine at low altitude.

The Kansas City girl, who set a new world record for women by looping 46 times at St. Louis in 1930, was the only one of four persons in the accident who failed to escape without serious injuries.

Miss Kauffman's plane and another piloted by Don Moss raced across the field in opposite directions at an altitude of about 75 feet. Both pilots made efforts to avoid a collision. The wings locked and both planes fell together. Physicians said Miss Kauffman's neck was broken.

Moss was uninjured. His passenger, Jack Leftwich, 17, escaped with minor head injuries as did Russell Shaw, who was riding with the girl pilot.

Miss Kauffman was a licensed transport pilot and had taken part in numerous air races. A special ship was being constructed for her use in the national air races at Cleveland late this month. While attempting to break her own loop record at Buffalo, N. Y., in the spring of 1930, she lost control of her plane and was forced to land by parachute.

QUESTION TWO IN KIDNAPING

Taylorville, Ill., Banker Near Death as Result of Beating, Exposure.

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 8—Near death from loss of blood and exposure, his body bruised and lacerated, John B. Colgrove, aged president of a defunct Taylorville, Ill., bank, lay in a hospital here today and related how he had been attacked in his home, kidnaped, bound and gagged, and then, after being carried miles in an auto, tossed into a weed patch where he was left to die.

Colegrove, under penitentiary sentence resulting from his bank's failure, remained in the weed patch from late Friday night until early Sunday, when he managed to loosen the ropes with which he was bound and made his way into Springfield to the home of a friend.

Hold Two Suspects

Meanwhile Christian county officials, where the kidnaping took place, were questioning two suspects, one of them a depositor in Colegrove's bank who lost $8,000 when it closed. Colegrove, suffering from exposure and the effects of the beating, was too weak to attempt their identification.

State's Attorney Harry Grundy of Taylorville, who recently obtained a one to three years sentence against Colegrove for accepting deposits when knowing the bank to be insolvent, obtained from the 66-year old banker the details of his abduction.

He told the state's attorney he was attacked in his home, where he lived alone, by two men as he was lighting a lamp. He struggled with his assailants, he said, but they overpowered him and carried him out of the house and put him into an auto.

GIVES SELF UP TO SHERIFF

Missing Woman Appears at Wentworth, N. C., Shortly Before Slated Time.

WILL TRY FOR FREEDOM

Trials for Two in Reynolds Death Likely To Be Held Week of Sept. 5.

By The Associated Press

WENTWORTH, N. C., Aug. 8—Libby Holman Reynolds, missing torch singing widow of the late Smith Reynolds, surrendered to North Carolina authorities here today at 2:50 p. m.

Dressed in black and heavily veiled, Mrs. Reynolds stepped out of a large limousine in front of the postoffice and surrendered to Sheriff L. M. Sheffield of Rockingham county.

The car, which approached Wentworth from the direction of Reidsville, carried an Ohio state tag and a Cincinnati city license.

Benet Polikoff, attorney for Libby, said the former torch singer would immediately appear before Judge A. M. Stack and seek her release on bail. She is under indictment in the fatal shooting of her young millionaire husband, Smith Reynolds, here a month ago.

Walker Is Free

Ab Walker, indicted jointly with Mrs. Reynolds was released Saturday under $25,000 bond.

Polikoff is one of two Winston-Salem attorneys retained last week by Alfred Holman, father of Mrs. Reynolds, to represent his daughter.

Superior court adjourned here last week and Judge Stack and Solicitor Carlisle Higgins transferred to Wentworth, where a term of Rockingham county superior court begins today.

This is why Libby's plea for bail must be made in the remote little Rockingham county instead of in Winston-Salem.

Solicitor Higgins did not oppose bail for Walker, giving rise to the impression here that he would not seriously combat the petition of Mrs. Reynolds.

Higgins, however, has refused to commit himself and said Saturday his course in the Walker case must not be taken as an indication of his probable attitude toward Libby's plea.

The attorney said Mrs. Reynolds is still suffering from the shock of her husband's death and expressed the hope the hearing would be "a quiet one."

Since the state at the Walker hearing said it did not have evidence enough to prosecute the youth on a first degree murder indictment, a similar step was looked to at the hearing for the young widow. The two were indicted jointly.

It is considered probable here today that Libby and Walker will go on trial for young Reynolds' shooting during the week of Sept. 5.

Fred S. Hutchins, county attorney, today asked Governor Gardner to order a special term of court for Forsyth county on that date. The special term would run for two weeks.

Hutchins based his request on grounds of a congested docket.

REV GEORGE M. LANDIS

FORMER PASTOR OF CHURCH HERE QUITS

Tells Congregation "Unity Practically Denied by Denominational System.

Rev George M, Landis, former pastor of Trinity Baptist church, has resigned his pastorate of the First Baptist church of New Castle, Pa, and also has severed his ties with the Baptist denomination. He said he was opposed to the present denominational system.

Rev. Landis delivered his farewell message to his congregation on Sunday, July 31, setting forth his reasons for renouncing his ministry. For the present he will stay with his mother at Honey Grove in Juanita county, Pa

His resignation followed seven and a half years as pastor. Rev. Landis went to New Castle from Trinity church here He succeeded the late Rev T H McAfee as pastor of Trinity church.

The strength of his own spiritual convictions was the underlying principle which motivated his resignation and renunciation, he said In his farewell sermon he stated his beliefs, telling his congregation that he could not be true to his conscience and to his God and continue in his spiritual work in the capacity of pastor. He said that his decision came after long deliberation, prayer and study of the New Testament, upon whose teachings he founds his belief.

Summarizing the result of his study and investigation of the position of the church in the light of the New Testament he said, "The truth of the unity of the church is practically denied by the present denominational system. The Divine order for the worship of the church is not being observed in the present denominational system The Divine order for the ministry and government of the church is not observed in the denominational systems of today and modernism is making rapid inroads in our own denomination and is fast gaining the reigns of power"

'Life's Golden Key' Topic of Sermon by Dr. Turley

Methodist Pastor Addresses Capacity Audience Sunday Night in Union Services at Trinity Baptist Church: Urges Christian America.

Dr. Charles E. Turley of Epworth M. E. church delivered the sermon at the union services last night at Trinity Baptist church, speaking before a congregation that filled the church.

"Whosoever will be great among you, let him become your minister, whosoever will be the chiefest, let him become the servant of all For the Son of Man came not to be ministered unto but to minister, and to give His life as a ransom for many," was the scriptural passage upon which Dr. Turley based his sermon "Life's Golden Key." The passage itself is the golden key of life, he said.

Dr Turley spoke in part as follows:

"In our study of history we learn that a number of men have had the title 'The Great' applied to their names Alexander, Herod, Gregory, Charles, Alfred, Peter, Frederick—all of these are called 'The Great' What makes a man great?

"In the state house grounds in Columbus there is a fine monument with the statues of seven of Ohio's first citizens Grant, Sherman, Hayes, Garfield, Chase and Stanton We call them great men.

"In the capitol building in Washington there is a room filled with the statues of noted men in the history of the republic That is the gallery of the great.

"One can prove his greatness by the way he faces the crisis hours in life The selection of a life work; the selection of a life companion, temptations charging the citidel of the soul disappointment and failure and defeat all of these call for strength of character and purpose.

"One proves his greatness by the service he renders with his life The great names of the past are the servants of humanity, Lord Shaftsbury, Jacob A Riis, Adoniram Judson, Jane Addams, David Livingstone, Chinese Gordon, William Boothe, Pasteur, Father Damien These are great names made so by the service they rendered their fellow men.

"One of the greatest names in the language is 'Mother'. And she earns her place of power by self-denying service."

"Father is a servant and thus does he become great.

"Then we prove our greatness by linking our lives with the program and spirit of Jesus

"More than anything else today America needs Christ We need Christ in the thought of America that the mind of America might be Christian Christ should be in the conscience of America that the standards of America be Christian Put Christ into the relationships of America that her contacts may be Christian.

"Christ should be in the activities of America that her social service may be Christian, Christ should be in the heart of America that the spirit of America may be Christian.

"Take Christ's 'Golden Key', use it and it will unlock the door to abiding, permanent greatness."

The union Young People's service at 7 was well attended The young people's orchestra gave an hour's program of sacred music interspersed with Bible readings, prayer and vocal solos.

Rev. G. G. Canfield of the First Church of the Brethren, offered prayer, Rev. Earl Holliday, former Baptist minister here, offered prayer and pronounced the benediction.

SUIT STOLEN BY HOUSE BURGLARS

Paul Weber Home Entered During Family's Absence Sunday.

Burglars who broke into the home of Paul Weber at 993 Sheridan road during the absence of the family yesterday afternoon, took a suit of clothing belonging to Weber, police reported this morning.

After gaining entrance to a breakfast porch by tearing a hole in a screen door, the burglars entered the house by breaking a section of glass from a rear door, reaching through and turning the key in the lock.

Mrs. Weber said this morning that no evidence of the house being ransacked was apparent when they returned home last night and that so far as could be determined this morning nothing but the suit had been taken. Police today were checking reports of a man who was seen begging matches in the neighborhood yesterday afternoon.

BROWN UNABLE TO TALK AT CONCERT

Final of Band Series Will Be Given Saturday Night.

Due to having been called out of the city Saturday morning, W. D. Brown, manager of the Marion Chamber of Commerce, who was scheduled for a short talk at the concert given by the municipal band Saturday night, was unable to appear.

As at the two previous Saturday night concerts, the program was heard by a large audience.

Vocal solos by James Courtney and William Dowler were features of the program. The fourth and last of the series planned by the band will be played from the same place next Saturday night.

Rodent Is "Out" as Ball Player Hurls Workshoe

A heavy workshoe and the accuracy of a Marion ball player proved to be a fatal combination for a rat that ventured out on the sidewalk on South Main street this morning.

The rat met death when John Rife of 166 Superior street, an outfielder for the Christian No 1 team in the No 2 Sunday school league and the Kappas in the Commercial league, hurled a workshoe at it as it scampered up the stairway at 310½ South Main street.

The case began when the rat ran past the Nobil Shoe Co. at 114 South Main street. Manager Leonard Whitman seized a heavy shoe on display in front of the store, and hurled that the fleeing rat.

The shot missed by inches Rife picked up the shoe and stunned the rat as it started up the stairway. Another blow finished the job.

wife in England she would marry him.

"Would Lancaster give you any money he had if you needed it?"

"Yes."

"Would he die for you?"

"Yes."

"Lie for you?"

"Bill doesn't lie."

"Steal for you?"

"He doesn't steal."

"Wouldn't he steal a chicken for you?"

The witness laughed.

Stole Chickens

Hawthorne referred to excerpts from Lancaster's diary, in which he wrote of stealing chickens and rabbits with Clarke for their table.

"Yes, he would do that," she laughed.

"Or a rabbit?"

"Yes."

"Or a duck?"

"No—yes we did have duck once."

The crowd in the courtroom—larger than on any previous day of the trial—laughed at each response.

Mrs Keith-Miller testified Haden Clarke had a violent temper and frequently was in high rage at his mother and at Peggy Brown, a girl he brought to the house on several occasions.

The suspects being held at Taylorville were arrested near Springfield Saturday morning. One of them, James Gammaitoni, who lost his deposit in Colegrove's bank, had previously threatened the banker, police said, if his money were not returned. It was due to this that suspicion was directed at him when the banker was kidnaped.

LOVES OF AVIATRIX PROBED BY LAWYER

Mrs. Keith-Miller Recalled to Stand in Shooting of Lancaster.

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., Aug 8 The loves of Mrs Jessie M. Keith Miller, Australian Aviatrix, drew further investigation today as the trial of Captain W J Lancaster, a former fiance, for murder of Haden Clarke, his successor in her affections, was resumed.

State Attorney N Vernon Hawthorne announced he would recall her to the witness stand today. He sought additional information about the triangular love affair of Mrs Keith Miller Clarke, young writer, and Lancaster. Clarke was helping her write a story of her life at the time of his death.

Letters written by Mrs Keith-Miller and Clarke to Lancaster, lamenting lack of funds, were read Saturday along with those of Lancaster.

Clarke was fatally shot April 21 in the room he and Lancaster occupied in Mrs Keith-Miller's home here.

Tale of Horror Takes Glamor from French Foreign Legion

By International News Service

LONDON—A tale of incredible horror and brutality was told here by a 22-year-old boy who has escaped from the French Foreign Legion after enduring every suffering and humiliation for months.

According to young Louis Chesler, the Foreign Legion of legend, the romance and glamor of the burning desert, mysterious Arabs, and deeds of heroism is a mere fiction used to entrap the innocent in search of adventure The truth is unromantic, unglamorous, and appalling.

The Foreign Legion, the legion of the lost, has always been a last resort of misfits—the criminal, the moral suicide, and the disillusioned. But it is, according to Chesler, a Devil's Island for volunteers, and a life imprisonment, for once having joined there is no returning.

Chesler not only managed to escape, but lived to tell the terrible story of his sufferings.

He was foolish enough to run away from England following domestic difficulties and an inability to get work He had heard that the life of the legionnaire is a romantic one.

This was the romance which Louis Chesler found in the Foreign Legion:

A march in the broiling sun with full pack and gas mask as a punishment.

Three days in a dark and filthy cell without food or drink.

A 10-mile march over the scorching desert without shoes or stockings.

A break-down at the side of a spring before he could drink.

Watching a man punished—stripped and scrubbed with sand.

Escorting a man to prison, and standing by helplessly while the prisoner was shown the grave into which he will be thrown when he was carried out.

But Chesler was full of romantic illusions when he joined They were dispelled even before he left the barracks at Paris The barracks were filthy, and he was given an old canvas bag a ragged blue tunic, half a loaf of bread, a tin mug and a tin of meat.

Once in Morrocco, sufferings of the kind already described started, and continued until he finally managed to escape.

BRANDY CAPTURES TOURNAMENT CROWN

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., Aug. 5—A young Akron player, Bill Brandy, today held the honor of being the only Ohioan ever to win two major golf championships in the same season.

Brandy yesterday captured the Ohio public links title at Turkey Foot course with a 295 for 72 holes He won the state intercollegiate championship at Dayton last spring.

A thrilling contest for second place in the tourney was won by John Racey of Cleveland, after a nine-hole playoff with Walter Barton and Jack Bricker, both of Akron.

On the ninth hole of the playoff, Racey's final putt hung on the lip of the cup a full five seconds, and he had just started to step forward for another shot when the ball toppled in, giving the Clevelander a 36 against Barton's and Bricker's 37's.

WAR DANGER GROWS IN SOUTH AMERICA

Bolivian Plane Shot Down, Dimming Prospects of Dispute Settlement.

By The Associated Press

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Aug. 5—Prospects for peace in the dispute between Paraguay and Bolivia over the Gran Chaco appeared more remote today following the shooting down of a Bolivian airplane over the Paraguayan lines on the frontier.

The plane was shot down as it reconnoitered the Paraguayan forts, 20 miles east of Fort Chanar, in the middle of the swamps of Estero Patino. The two Bolivian aviators were captured.

As a result of the incident, the Associated Press was informed, Paraguay was preparing to send a new note to the neutral Central and South American nations, and to the United States.

Military leaders rushed preparations for possible further clashes and there were reports both nations were increasing their forces in the Chaco.

General Ayala chief of staff of the army resigned and was replaced provisionally by Major Arturo Bray.

THRILLING SCENES IN 'DOOMED BATTALION'

Dont miss The Doomed Battalion which will close Wednesday at the Ohio The producers have made a picture that you won't forget soon The great snow covered mountains of the Austrian Tyrol are the setting for a story that is as thrilling as the vast glory of the mountains and the cast headed by Luis Trenker Victor Varconi and the new find Tala Birell is splendid

Trenker a champion skier who has an opportunity to exhibit his great speed and skill in several sequences also displays real acting talent that probably will lead to other roles He is a member of an Austrian battalion stationed in a mountain pass in the Tyrol to hold back an Italian advance The Italians tunnel under the pass and Trenker volunteers to go down to his village where his wife Tala Birell and the son he has not seen are waiting for him and gain information as to the time the Italians will blow up the pass

The suspense is terrific when he has to decide between the wife and baby or the doomed battalion at the pass The striking snow scenes were filmed at the locale of the story A good comedy and a newsreel complete the bill H H

MENJOU PLAYS IN 'FRIENDS AND LOVERS'

Two men Adolphe Menjou and Laurence Olivier are in love with the same woman Lily Damita in Friends and Lovers the picture which will show tonight and Tuesday at the Marion Both officers in the English army in India they believe that she has been insincere and strive to forget her

On leave they meet her at a dinner party and complications arise when she goes to Menjou's room to declare her love and explain her part in the affair and they are found by Olivier who is insanely jealous Olivier by the way bears a striking resemblance to Ronald Colman

After a tempestuous scene Olivier realizes her love for Menjou and sends him to her Eric Von Stroheim plays the role of her husband who forces her to be attractive to other men as a means of blackmail to earn their living A comedy Foiled Again done after the manner of years ago, a sports short and an operetta are on the program H H

The Stars Say—

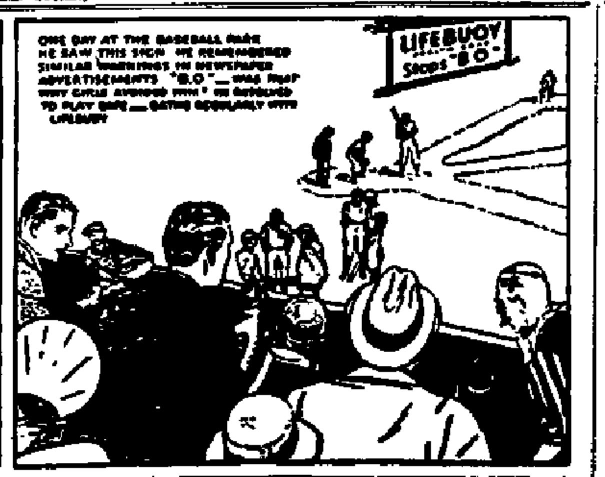

For Tuesday, Aug 9

THE sidereal operations for this day must be read as generally adverse and disruptive having an unfortunate reaction in employment and general affairs and producing unhappy and perilous conditions in the personal relations. There is a presage of violent, jealous and ungovernable conduct in the latter, which may prove to be regrettable. However, there seems to be an event of rather sensational significance in the private affairs—a propitious one

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of much stirring up and strife in both private and business affiliations Employment is particularly in jeopardy, a state of peril brought about by a predisposition to rash [illegible] and [illegible] conduct. A child born on this day is likely to be aggressive, violent, [illegible] and jealous, which may have its [illegible] on its private and business life, unless it be disciplined in infancy. Notable nativity: Charles Russell, movie actor.

My Beauty Hint

BY MARGUERITE CHURCHILL

THE question I am asked most frequently is, "Do you wash your face with soap and water?" I answer "No."

I use a good cleansing cream and much skin food, as the western climate is drying to the skin I remove the shiny appearance with a skin tonic, and I frequently rub my face with ice Put na to soap and water, never

I think a thorough cleaning of the skin at night with cream and then a tonic, followed by a skin food, is the correct thing

Daily Home Massage Beautifies Hands and Arms, Expert Says

BY JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON

Hand and arm massage really should be dealt with at the same time but space is too limited to include both in one article, so today we'll discuss only the method of beautifying the hands for in many cases massage is far more essential for the hands than for the arms

Writers artists, musicians and typists often over-work the multitude of small muscles and tendons of the hand structure therefore nerve strain and cramping of these muscles and tendons is very apt to occur making the hands appear older and less attractive than they should

Massage and exercises unlike the exercise of work are beneficial in culation, make muscles and tensuch cases for they stimulate cirdons more flexible and induce new suppleness and gracefulness of movement.

Daily home massage routines are simple and effective but still greater hand beauty can be had by supplementing them with a weekly treatment at the beauty shop

Massage a liberal amount of cleansing cream over the hands working it in well over the knuckles then remove with cleansing tissues If the skin is inclined to oiliness, apply a combination cold cream If the skin is dry, use a nourishing cream as the base for your massage

Press the fingers of the left hand together but refrain from tensing the muscle or straining the hand Holding the left hand in this position, run the fingers of the right hand over the back of the left, in the grooves between the fingers, starting at the finger tips. When the right finger tips come to where the left fingers join the hand press firmly relax, press and relax a few times, then continue to the wrist. Repeat ten times

Turn the left hand over and repeat on its front, pressing and releasing as before, and when the heel of the right hand is centered in the left palm, rotate it five times to the left, then five to the right.

Winning Hand Grace

Spread the fingers of the left hand and with the thumb and first finger of the right, press gently along the sides of each left finger Rotate each finger, holding lightly by the tip, five times to the left and five times to the right.

Working with the left hand, repeat the procedure on the right hand

Remove excess cream wash hands, rinse thoroughly, dry gently and then use your favorite hand lotion.

Repeating this treatment daily will greatly enhance the beauty and grace of hands that look worn.

CONCERT IS PLANNED BY CIVIC ORCHESTRA

I don't want your friendship. I don't want anything from you at all. Leave me alone and go away.

She began to sob, deep tearless sobbing that shook her slender body from head to foot.

Anderson put his hands on her shoulders and gently pressed her down into the big chair again.

"It's no use upsetting yourself," he said in a matter of fact voice. "I intend to be your friend whether you want me or not. What do you suppose Merriman will do if he is never fit enough to go back to the West Coast?"

She checked her sobbing with difficulty.

"I don't know."

"Well, it's a point worth consideration," he told her evenly. "I shall do my best to find him another post, of course—perhaps somewhere more congenial this time, where you will be able to go with him."

"I have told you that I don't want to go with him—anywhere."

"Don't you think it will be wiser to wait until you have seen him before you make such a sweeping assertion?"

She looked at him with bewildered eyes.

"I thought you said you loved me—" she broke out.

"I don't see how that affects the subject at all, Sondra."

"Well, it does," she insisted. "If you—if you loved me you would want me to be happy. You wouldn't try to make me stand by—by the greatest mistake of my life."

He looked at her silently for a moment, then he said:

"Perhaps I am considering Merriman a little, even though you apparently do not."

"And it doesn't matter about me at all, I suppose," she accused him fiercely.

"You have always seemed perfectly capable of looking after yourself," he answered unemotionally.

She looked at him with blazing eyes.

"You mean that I've always let you look after me, I suppose," she stormed. "How dare you say such things to me? I'll make you sorry for it—I'll make you sorry—"

"Perhaps I'm sorry already, Sondra," Anderson answered.

She hid her face in her hands, crying softly.

"You're unkind. I don't understand you. You've never spoken to me like this before."

"Perhaps I trusted you before," he said heavily. "It's not pleasant even for me, Sondra—to find out that I've been made a fool of—a catspaw—" he broke off sharply.

There was a long silence, and presently Sondra whispered—

"I'm sorry, John ... sorry ... sorry."

He laughed mirthlessly.

"Not for me, I think," he said. "For yourself, I daresay—"

He walked over to the window and stood looking out at the narrow street, and Sondra watched him with tragic eyes.

After a moment she said: "Well—what do you want me to do?"

"It's not what I want you to do—it's what you must do."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean that you've got to stand by Merriman; he's too decent a fellow to be let down, besides—he's ill—" for a moment he seemed to lose himself as his eyes rested on her tear-stained face, then with an effort he went on: "I suppose you haven't told him that you—that your marriage with him was a mistake?"

She shook her head.

"I'm glad of that; we all make mistakes, but it's not fair to expect innocent people to suffer for them. Besides—you may be quite wrong, Sondra. When you see him you may find that things are all right. —I'm not a sentimentalist, but it seems to me if you cared enough for him to marry him you can't have changed so soon."

She sat silent, her eyes cast down, her hands tearing at her handkerchief. She wanted to say: "I never cared for him, John—" but she was afraid.

It was he who broke the silence, speaking in matter of fact tones once again.

"And now about you. Do you want to stay here?"

"I can't afford any other place."

"Why don't you go down to the sea for a week or two?" he suggested. "A change will do you good, and it need not cost any more than these rooms. Merriman can't be home for a month or six weeks at least."

She looked up at him with a faint smile.

"I've go[t] another idea," he said. "There's a little cottage of mine at the shore. An old maid aunt of—of Evelyn's lives there, but she'll be glad to take you in. I'll write to her if you'd care to go."

"I should love it, but you've done too much for me already. I shall never be able to get out of your debt."

The ears started again, but Anderson pretended not to see them.

"I think that will be the very thing," he said. "I'll run you down in the car."

"Well, what do you say? Shall we go down on Saturday?"

"If you really want me to."

He laughed at that. "I don't want to bully you into doing anything you don't wish to do."

She raised her eyes. "Don't you?"

He let her obvious meaning pass.

"Well, then, that's settled," he said. "I'll call for you about 9 if that's not too early."

She stood up, holding to the chair back to steady herself.

"You're too kind to me, John."

"Nonsense. And humility doesn't suit you, Sondra—I'd much rather you flew into a rage with me like you did just now. Well—if there's nothing more you want to say to me—" he held out his hand.

Sondra looked up at him.

"I haven't said I'm sorry about Evelyn."

"My dear, don't you think that's a thing we can leave unsaid?"

He was silent for a moment, then he took her hand.

"Won't you smile and say you forgive me for bullying you?"

She was standing with drooping head, but suddenly she looked up, her eyes very sweet and pleading.

"I should like to kiss you again, John—"

Madge Receives a Phone Message

I DO not know yet how I managed to stand erect at the telephone and make answer coherently to the Chinese voice that asked: "This Missee Graham?" This long distance call from Newark, in the face of the fact that nobody outside the immediate family circles of the kidnaped girls knew that I was in Sacketts(ville), could mean only one thing. There must be some connection between the men who had the girls in their power and the Chinese who had so long terrorized us.

With all the will power I had I forced my voice to perfunctory courtesy.

"Yes, I am Mrs. Graham. What is it?"

"You no talk any more now. Only say yes, no when I talk. You know where tea room is on side mountain, Schooley?"

A Problem to Face

"Yes." With part of my brain I was following his directions. With the other I was compelling my memory to remember inflections, mannerisms, everything I could gather about this mysterious voice.

"You can go place far now?"

"Yes."

"Then just one hour from now, no more, no less, you take car, go straight that tea room. You go in, buy tea, something to eat. Then you look around walls at things she sell, say you want buy present for fiend. Bimeby you take down little two stick candles riding horse on mantel, say you like it, want candles too. No let lady lap up. You say you in hurry. You go much hurry back hotel, look under candles, do what paper say."

There was a sort of low mirthless chuckle at the end of his speech, then the receiver clicked and I was left standing, my hand clutching my own receiver, too dazed to replace it, too terror stricken almost to breathe.

"Are you through?"

The operator's voice brought me back to sanity, and mechanically I replaced the receiver and made my way to the nearest chair. I was not sure of my knees.

One hour from now, no more, no less. The direction rang in my ears as I looked at my wrist watch and made a mental calculation. Giving myself plenty of time, I would need no more than twenty minutes to drive up to the mountain glen tea room, famed among a succession of Whitney Hall classes for its chicken and waffles and its fruit conserves.

I put my hands over my eyes, an old trick of mine when trying to shut out everything save the problem upon which I was concentrating.

One thing was very plain to me. It was my problem alone. There was no one on hand in whom I could confide. Our men would not be back, and Lillian was so tied up by Helena's collapse that I could not call upon her.

Mary? I was sorely tempted to find my husband's winsome niece and tell her of this newest terrifying development in our awful experience of the last few days, but my conscience conquered my inclination. Mary was too young, too inexperienced to be able to give me any counsel or aid in the problem. I must face it alone.

Was Lee Chow Wrong?

Of course there had been nothing definite as yet to connect this mysterious summons to the mountain glen tea room with the kidnapping of Marion and Carolyn. But I was sure that there was a link, and a strong one, between the two. Yet Lee Chow, upon whose sapience we had depended in so many crises, had assured us that the Chinese menace no longer existed for us.

From our experience of him it seemed impossible that he could be mistaken about the miscreants whom he had hunted so long and so successfully. But what other explanation could there be of this mysterious summons?

It was a tortuous maze through which I groped, and it was with a feeling of hopelessness that I threw out my hands in a gesture of futility and resolved that since I had no slightest clue to the problem I must put aside the consideration of it until I should be compelled to face it at the tea room.

"May I Come Too?"

Acting upon the theory of Mary, Queen of Scots, I bathed and dressed in the more attractive of the two gowns I had with me. I dawdled over the dressing, trying to occupy my mind with the fit of a glove and the wrinkle of a stocking in order to keep from thinking of the dreaded task before me.

Inexorably, however, the hands of my wrist watch raced forward to the moment when I must start. With the realization that I must leave some word behind so that they could get hold of me in an emergency, I went down the hall to Mary's room and told her that I was going to run over to the glen tea room for some waffles and tea.

"I can think of nothing nicer," Mary said. "May I come too?"

Getting Ahead.

It is good to know that some progress has been made in the fight to lower the death rate from automobile accidents, even though most of the credit is due the depression, which has caused a decrease in automobile registrations. Seven hundred and seven fewer people were killed by automobiles in 86 large cities during the 52-week period ending July 9 this year than were killed in the same period ending the previous year. The reduction amounts almost to 6 per cent.

Unfortunately, it can not be said that the figures represent the entire nation. They are merely representative of a trend. However, when it is considered that automobile registrations, the probable cause of the decreases, were declining in every community of the United States, there is little reason to doubt that the automobile death rate is coming down.

It is the absolute total of deaths that has convinced Americans year after year that they are challenged with a danger as great or greater than war in their most useful machine, the automobile. Adjusted to the increase in the number of automobiles, the number of deaths from automobile accidents actually is smaller than it was 12 years ago, in a period of comparative safety.

There is little relish for reason, however, when death is the subject. The fact remains that there is a challenging possibility of causing human beings to adapt themselves to their motorized environment more successfully. In 1930 about 25 people out of every 100,000 in the nation died as a result of automobile accidents.

Led by insurance companies and inspired by an inherent determination for improvement, Americans will not be satisfied until they can do something about it—something more tangible than the depression has done by taking automobiles off the streets.

The Next Senate.

It is not too soon to consider the possibility that both houses of the next congress will be controlled by Democrats. Election of a Republican President does not alter the prospect greatly. In states where the two parties are evenly matched the trend against legislative "ins" will favor Democrats.

There are 34 seats in the senate to be filled in November. Eighteen now are occupied by Republicans, who have a total strength of 48, including nominal members of the party who chum among themselves under the progressive banner. This is, of course, insufficient to carry out with certainty a Republican legislative program.

Of the 18 present Republican senatorships, at least 11 are threatened by Democrats. They are in Indiana, Colorado, Connecticut, Illinois, Washington, the Dakotas, Nevada, California, Oregon and Idaho. If Democrats were to hold their present strength and gain all of these, which is at least a probability, they would have a total of 58 seats out of 96.

Democratic senatorships to be decided, on the other hand, are safer. Most of them are in the South, where a nomination means election. One is in New York and another in Maryland and they, too, are considered reasonably safe. There is more than a possibility that Democrats will take control of the senate, placing new names under many titles which have been cemented by usage to Republican surnames.

Ups and Downs.

To learn about the present consult the past. What happened when stock prices began to rise in the depression of 1920-22?

A chart compiled from the industrial activity index of the federal reserve board and the Standard Statistics Corporation's average of stock prices for 404 industrials, rails and utilities for the previous depression period is definitely cheering, either considered by itself or in conjunction with a similar chart for the first half of 1932.

In each case the level of stock prices remains slightly above the level of industrial activity up to the point at which it is generally acknowledged that the "low" was established. In the depression of 1920-22 business was dullest in the period from March to October in 1921. It is likely that when the history of the present depression is written the "low" will be established in approximately the same period.

That the upward trend is on its way now is indicated by a curious similarity of charts for this year and 1921. Both show that immediately preceding the trend the levels of industrial activity and stock prices merge for a short time, after which stock prices fall below and then start on a sustained rise. In 1922 this statistical phenomenon occurred between August and October. If experience may be trusted it will occur at approximately the same time this year. The level of stock prices fell below the level of industrial activity between June and July.

In general appearance the two charts referred to look like the probable course of a balloon carrying a weight attached to it by an elastic cord. Stocks are the balloon; industrial activity is the weight. Public confidence is the elasticity of the cord, the more it stretches the higher the balloon soars, eventually dragging industrial activity off a dead level. Indications are that a sustained flight is in progress once more.

The Speech.

Barring unexpected happenings, the week of Aug. 7 will be notable chiefly in current events for President Hoover's speech of acceptance on Thursday. It will be more than a speech; it will be "the speech."

Proofs of it are in the careful hands of his advisers for examination and revision. Knowing well that every word of it will be weighed by the opposition, Republicans will try to make it as bullet-proof as possible.

In doing so it can be predicted with reasonable certainty that they will assist Mr. Hoover in compiling one of the most conservative statements in either the party or national history. In contrast to Governor Roosevelt's radicalism it will set forth only well tried ideas. As Raymond Clapper, writing for the United Press, says, it will be a "safety first" appeal.

Governor Roosevelt has failed as yet to strengthen his appeal with a definite program. Undoubtedly, this is advantageous to Mr. Hoover, whose program is well known. It is in operation. Effects are felt in every community which has drawn on the resources of the Reconstruction Finance Corp.

Upon the probability that the nation will be convinced that restoration in the order of things before November Republicans pin their hope for reelection. Their cue is conservatism and they will not miss it. Democrats have based their appeal on the existence of depression. Bryan campaigned on such a platform in '96 and was defeated when the depression began to lift. Republicans got the credit—and the votes.

President Hoover is depending on a repetition of those circumstances in 1932. People who are making money—even people who are looking ahead with confidence to better times—are conservative in their opinions. Tried methods are more attractive than untried ones. Governor Roosevelt's prospect for success will be darkened from now on by each new evidence that the United States is shaking off adversity.

Behind the Cynicism.

It has become, for better or worse, good style to be cynical in the presence of that activity which is closest to the people—politics. The extreme development of the attitude is found in those persons so hardened by constant contact with the science of government that they view it an abstract manipulation of votes. The most pitiful manifestation it has inflicted on the people is the uncomprehending skeptic—the doubter for doubt's sake.

A little skepticism is a good thing; it opens the doorway to investigation and, ultimately, that storeroom of complete knowledge from which one may emerge, if wise enough, with approximations of ultimate truth. Skepticism is, however, a means and not an end. It will be a sorrowful experience for the American people if they allow their abounding doubt of politics and politicians to stand as the crowning achievement of their political development.

No one who has been watching the trend of events during the last two years can doubt that it is becoming more difficult to fool the people. They have learned by hard experience that it is one thing to promise and another to keep promises. They have been shocked recurrently by evidences of corruption almost beyond their comprehension. They have, by common consent, served notice on politicians that they are suspicious of them; that they will not permit abuse of those rights which should be safeguarded for the preservation of efficient and serviceable government.

These things have been the manifestations, primarily, of sound skepticism. There is need for warning, however, lest the condition which produced them be allowed to produce, also, too much of skepticism's foolish companion quality—cynicism. It must not be lost sight of that politics, for all its hardness and corruption, is the life of government which represents security for the people. To shut politics outside the door because of its sin is to refuse sympathetic and constructive attention to man's only means of making his existence under government more profitable and enjoyable.

Repulsion, in other words, must not be permitted to lead to discouragement. That is what selfish politicians would find most desirable; if they could be rid of the potential opposition which exists in the minds of intelligently skeptical voters and permitted to obtain their mandates from those who always can be herded like sheep in any direction, they would succeed speedily in bringing about the complete ruination of the nation. There is almost ground for suspicion that this is the end they have been trying to gain by their unashamed victimization of the public.

It is pleasant to believe that following the current wave of mingled skepticism and cynicism there will come a reawakened public spirit which will inspire worthier men to take political responsibilities to themselves. There is, in fact, nothing else for an optimist to believe. Continuance of present conditions, retention of widespread cynicism concerning the activities of politicians and failure to develop wider personal interest in the vitally important processes of operating government offer nothing but certainty that the purpose of Democratic government will be defeated.

Latest Boon in Cases of Pernicious Anemia.

Within the last five years tremendous strides have been made in the study of pernicious anemia. At one time this disease was frequently fatal and little was known concerning a cure; then came the discovery of the use of liver in the diet as a means of combatting it.

Shortly after the discovery of liver as a curative agent in pernicious anemia, research developed a liver extract. This was an important forward step, because many sufferers could not eat the required amounts of liver without marked digestive disturbances. In many cases they had to discontinue the use of liver in the diet.

Now comes the important announcement that a solution of liver extract has been made which can be injected into the veins or muscles. This is an outstanding achievement. The results obtained from this new method of treatment have been more than satisfactory in a good many cases.

The effects of pernicious anemia may cause a critical condition, and when the anemia is far advanced, repeated transfusions of blood are necessary to prevent a fatal outcome.

It is in such cases that the new method of liver injection is extremely beneficial. There is a response to the injection within twenty-four hours, while if liver is eaten, ten days or more may elapse before beneficial results are noted.

Many patients who find it difficult to eat large quantities of liver, and fail to respond to the liver diet, derive great benefit when given liver extract by the injection method.

The injections, given once a week, do not cause any pain and rarely, if ever, result in uncomfortable reaction.

The treatment should never be given without the supervision of a physician. The diagnosis of the disease should be confirmed first by a blood count, and the blood count repeated after several injections to determine the progress made.

In mild cases the number of injections may be gradually decreased, but in more severe cases it may be necessary to continue injections for a prolonged period of time.

We are indeed indebted to the painstaking and brilliant work of those scientists who have awakened hope of the cure of pernicious anemia.

Glimpses of the Past

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Tuesday, Aug. 8, 1922.

Carmi A. Thompson of Cleveland, won the Republican nomination for governor in a field of nine candidates and A. V. Donahey was the choice of the Democrats in a statewide primary.

President Harding announced that he wanted a complete congress assembled in Washington and ready for action in the event railway and coal strikes created a serious industrial situation, and to that end he directed congressional leaders to cancel any plans they had for recesses following the reconvening of the house on Aug. 15.

Karl S. Bolander of South Prospect street returned from Chicago where he had taught during July in the Applied Arts Summer school. Later in the week he planned to go to Fort Wayne to take up his work as director of the Fort Wayne Art School and Museum.

Cad Price, 61, former Union county sheriff, died suddenly of a heart attack at his home in Richwood.

The primary election in Marion county was a record-breaker for the number of votes cast. On the Republican side candidates for governor received a total of 3,623 votes and on the Democratic side, 4,358 votes were cast. In the Eighth congressional district Congressman R. Clint Cole overwhelmingly defeated his two opponents, James R. Hopley of Bucyrus and Harry R. Rodabaugh of Findlay. H. H. Hartman of Galion was the Democratic nominee for congress, defeating Carl W. Smith and Thomas C. Mahon of Kenton and John R. Stambaugh of Crestline.

Mrs. F. O. Tuttle Jr. was hostess to members of the Inter-Nos club at an indoor picnic at her home on Cathart street.

Miss Helen Fennell was hostess to members of the S. J. A. club at her home on North Greenwood street.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Thursday, Aug. 8, 1912.

The Progressive party, in convention at Chicago, nominated Theodore Roosevelt for President and Governor Hiram W. Johnson of California for vice president.

A news report from Columbus said that Warren G. Harding, former lieutenant governor, and candidate for governor in 1910, was being prominently mentioned again for the nomination for governor by the Republican party to fill the vacancy caused by the refusal of Judge E. B. Dillon of Columbus to run. President Taft, it was said, was anxious that the state central committee select Harding as the nominee.

A news report stated that a number of Erie railroad men who had intended moving to Marion from Galion declared they might change their minds and locate in Kent. They said that Marion property owners and real estate agents were demanding too high rentals.

Miss Mary G. Hay of New York City, president of the New York Federation of Women's clubs, Mrs. Grace [illegible] Clark of Indianapolis, former president of the Indiana federation and Miss Rose Schneiderman of New York City, vice president of the Woman's Trade Union, spoke at a mass meeting held in the common pleas courtroom in behalf of woman's suffrage. Comment of the Press

A BRAVE MAN.

Frank McHugh, a small New York grocer, was in his place of business when a robber entered and demanded money at the point of a gun. Not only did the holdup man ask cash, but he insisted on Mr. McHugh's pants, on the belief that without this article of utility and adornment there would be no pursuit.

But little did the robber know about his victim. Mr. McHugh is of such stuff as heroes are made. He was twice brave. He was daring in pursuit and equally as bold in the manner in which he went about catching his man. Mr. McHugh went pantless.

Imagine the embarrassment of most men running down a busy street in any city without their pants, being garbed in nothing more complete below the waist than a pair of skimpy shorts.

Nine cases out of ten they would have let the robber get away with it. After all, pride comes before a pair of pants and a wad of hard earned money.

Mr. McHugh was determined not only to recover his money but to demonstrate that a man's a man for a' that even without his pants.

The flight and subsequent capture of the bad man was a classic deserving of a place alongside that memorable victory in the 100-meter race at the Olympic games. People who remember such spectacles in the good old days of Mack Sennett comedies never would have believed it could happen in real life.

Mr McHugh is deserving of acclaim of fellow citizens because he sets a [illegible] which is bound to be followed if robbers keep on insisting that victims give up their pants as well as their money.—Toledo Times.

Highlights of Ohio History

AN OLD CAVE ON SCIOTO.

Caves are likely to abound in limestone countries, but the vicinity of Columbus, marked by extensive outcroppings of limestone, has no caves. Instead, quarrymen find "mud seams"—nuisances to their business. However, in the early days, on the east bank of the Scioto at Columbus, a cave which could be followed back nearly 100 feet, was located.

It was this limestone cliff that gave to the vicinity and stone industries there the name, Marble Cliff. Before the middle of the last century, rattlesnakes menaced the neighborhood. In this cliff they bred and made their homes. On a sunny afternoon, hundreds might be seen basking at the mouth of the cave.

The snakes finally were exterminated by hogs which were confined in a pen surrounding the mouth of the cave. Hogs are vicious enemies of snakes. They attack, kill and devour them whenever they find them. And the venom of the rattlesnake seems to have no ill effect upon the hog. The limestone cliff eventually disappeared, too, under the extensive quarry operations there.

Dinner Stories

We arise in the morning, contact a cake of soap briefly, a shaving brush more extensively. We contact a pair of eggs, a street car conductor and finally the office. There is an unpleasant contact with a bill collector. He says he must contact some money. Later, perhaps, we contact a customer or two. When the shades of night have contacted the earth, we contact dinner and pass the evening contacting poor bridge hands.

And so to bed.

Our fathers had all these experiences, but the poor dubs didn't know how to describe them. — (Louisville Courier-Journal.)

New York Day by Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Aug. 8.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Jerked out of sound slumber by the most horrible screams ever I heard. And a young typist going to work, had been crushed by a lorry, against the iron fence of the roadway mall. Nor did the ambulance arrive for 18 minutes, but I hear she will live.

Came a privately circulated, autographed volume from George Ade, of Langdon Smith's "Evolution," which I am mighty glad to own. Also a note from Winnie Sheehan, at his desk again in Hollywood, and chirpy. Dining with Ann and Henry Sell atop the Waldorf, and on to watch dancers in a hall in the Black Belt.

So, driving in the lucid moonlight with my wife to Chappaqua to see Chester Geppert Marsh, as talented a lady as I know from our town. And many there not seen in years, among them, Mrs. Rose Henking, Florence Kerr, John and Lulu Hayward and Margaret Ecker. And we reuned until after midnight, discussing the tweaks of time.

Chamberlain Dodds, the decorator, journeyed to a bull fight in San Sebastian recently. After seeing the first bull killed and three blinded nags of the picadors horribly gored, he left in a semi-swoon. Outside the arena, he waved to a fiacre, but before stepping in, leaned against the horse and in a wan whisper confided: "Old boy, if you know what's good for you, you'll get out of this town."

The Marry-Go-Round

BY HELEN ROWLAND.

"THE FORGOTTEN HUSBAND."

"The Forgotten Man," says one who signs himself "Mere Husband," is the one who pays the rent, settles the garage bills, brings home the bacon and mows the lawn, while Mother is at the bridge club and the children are using the car and burning up the roads.

Just when, how and why the average American husband came to be "the forgotten man" in his own household is a mystery. But there is no doubt that, during the "whoopee decade," when the money was rolling in, and everybody was stepping out, a lot of husbands and fathers were "forgotten."

Sometimes, it was because Father wanted to be forgotten, and never came home, except to change from his golf-knickers to his dinner coat. And sometimes, it was because he was so absorbed in making money, or so easy-going, or so dog-tired that he permitted himself to be forgotten.

* * *

Mother-and-the-girls had barely a speaking acquaintance with him—except on Christmas and when the bills fell due. Or when they needed pocket-money. Next to last year's almanac or last week's newspaper, nothing is so easily forgotten as a debt—or a self-effacing husband!

But the whoopee decade is past. Other times, other manners! And, now, Supreme Court Justice A. Cotillo of New York throws a brand new light on the domestic situation by his recent ruling that "the husband who permits his wife to work and shifts to her the responsibility of making provision for their needs, forfeits whatever control (over her) might doubtfully have been his by virtue of his masculinity."

I'll say, "doubtfully"! For, if any modern American husband ever had any control over his wife "by virtue of his masculinity," he has managed to keep it a dark secret.

His "control," if any, has always been by virtue of his pocketbook! And now, with the entrance of the working-wife, he is facing the loss of that.

The balance of power anywhere on earth, and particularly in the family, has always been in the hands of the one who held the "purse-strings and had the biggest balance in the bank—if he chose to use it.

Who is it that lays down the rules and dictates how the office shall be run? The man who pays the office rent and the office salaries! Isn't it?

* * *

Who is it that has the last word in every decision in any big business enterprise? The man who is putting up the money! Then, isn't it a little ridiculous for "the man who pays the rent, brings home the bacon and mows the lawn," to let the family ride all over him—and then go about moaning that he is "the Forgotten Man?"

Justice Cotillo is right. The working-wife is entitled to a full-sized vote. But, any Good Provider, who brings home all the bacon and hands out the pocket-money yet is too lazy or too indifferent or too soft-hearted or soft-headed to exercise a controlling vote in the family, deserves to be "forgotten"—and usually is!

The truth is that the average American husband loves to spoil his women—and then go about bragging how The Little Woman "bosses" him! — Copyright 1932, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Daily Talk to Parents

"OUR BABY."

During the months before Gerda's baby brother was born, she was taken into the family secret. It was hoped that jealousy would be forestalled.

Gerda was very proud and happy at the thought of a baby with whom she would be able to play and whom she might help care for. She was shown the baby clothes as they were made and helped to lay them away. The baby was not the baby, but "our baby."

During these months Gerda assumed a protective attitude toward her mother. It was as if her mother had suddenly become very precious. She preferred just being near her to the allurements of play.

Where before it had been difficult to get her to come into the house, even for meals, day after day now found her quietly at her mother's side.

And then the baby was born and mother was away for many long days and nights. The actual baby as he lay in mother's arms was a strange, ugly, unpleasant little thing who seemed suddenly to have absorbed all the mother's attention.

Gerda tried to be happy. She proudly showed the baby to visitors and asked to hold it in her arms. How violent was her own conflict was not revealed until one day, when again she had asked to hold the baby, she suddenly thrust it away crying: "Take it, take it, it's not our baby at all, it's [illegible]."

It is not possible to clear away or to remove entirely the [illegible] struggle that every child faces in accepting a new brother or sister. There is no escaping the fact that it comes to share in the love of both parents.

It helps to prepare the child in advance, to reassure him of continued love, but he must be allowed time in which honestly to make the hard adjustment.

TRACK, FIELD TITLE CAPTURED BY YANKS

America Sweeps Events, Adding More Points on Final Day of Sports Classic.

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 8—To the son of the Argentine, Juan Carlos Zabala, winner of the Olympic marathon with a record-breaking performance, and to the sweeping triumphs of America's fast-stepping, high-flying boys and girls, go the chief honors of the Olympic track and field championships today.

While the forces of the United States were crowning their team triumph yesterday with flashes of relay speed, adding four new world records, Zabala was wearing down his rivals with machine-like strides that carried him to the finish in the new Olympic record time of 2 hours, 31 minutes, 36 seconds for the 26 miles 385 yards.

The victory carried him home 200 yards ahead of Sam Ferris, British veteran. A Finlander, another Briton, two Japanese and an American were next at the line of finish. This race capped the climax of eight days of athletic competition unparalleled in world history.

Not Over Yet

There is many an Olympic battle still to be fought with California's crew engaged in the defense of American eight-oared honors, the Yankee boxers facing brisk skirmishes and U. S. swimmers challenged already by Japan's sensational young aquatic stars, but it will be a long time before the thrills, the astounding records, the arguments and the official "boners" of the track and field championships are forgotten.

There has never been a combined athletic show for men and women like it. They thought much of the kick was extracted when the peerless Paavo Nurmi was banished. But performances not only were so startling as to make about 400,000 spectators forget all about the great Finn but sufficiently good to knock the last of Nurmi's Olympic marks from the record lists. What Paavo might have done yesterday in the marathon is something else, but Nurmi at his very best would have had his hands full trying to head off Zabala. Nurmi from the stands watched a Polander, Kusocinski, take the 10,000 meter honors, saw "Jarring Jim" Bausch, the American, surpass Finland's favored all-around stars in a world record decathlon performance, and an Italian, Beccali, put Finland's champion and the rest of the world's milers to rout in the classic 1,500.

Finland won only three individual championships while the United States celebrated its comeback by romping off with 11 of the 23 men's championships, in addition to five of the six women's title events, for the best all around Olympic showing the U. S. A. has known in 20 years. The Americans won the men's team championship with the aggregate of 218 points, to Finland's second-place 72. The margin was even wider in the feminine division, where the American girls rolled up 78¾ points to 18¾ for Germany, in second place.

There was never any question of where the team supremacy rested but the battle for individual honors packed a succession of thrills and performances that, in retrospect, make the truth seem stranger than fiction.

All told, Olympic records are wiped out completely in 25 of the 29 events for men and women. The only events that escaped were the hammer throw, broad jump and high jump, besides the 50,000 meter walk, a new event, for which the time must stand at least as a new Olympic standard. World records were surpassed in 13 events, including all six of the women's contests, and equalled in three others.

Eddie Tolan, the dusky sprint king, and Bill Carr, world's greatest quarter-miler, led the United States back to an enjoyment of running prestige.

America was at least 1-2 in the 100, 200, 400 runs and 110 meter hurdles, as well as the shotput and discus.

Carr Wins Again

Carr whose 400 meter triumph over Ben Eastman in the world record time of 46.2 seconds was one of the greatest achievements of the week, contributed to the final whirl yesterday. With a running start, on the anchor leg of the 1,600 meter relay, he duplicated his record time to help the Americans beat Great Britain, and lower their own world record to 3 minutes, 8.2 seconds.

Carr's mates were Ivan Fuqua of Indiana, Ed Ablowich of Southern California, and Karl Warner of Yale.

The American 400-meter quartet, Bob Kiesel, Emmett Toppino, Hector Dyer and Frank Wykoff, all four of whom were shut out of the individual sprint forces redeemed themselves by winning their relay event in 40 seconds flat. These fliers beat Germany's highly rated quartet by 10 yards.

Babe Didrikson, the remarkable Texas girl athlete, failed to achieve her goal of three individual championships and as many world records when she was defeated in the high jump finals by her teammate, Jean Shirley of Philadelphia. Nevertheless Miss Didrikson was the sensation of the women's athletics, triumphing in the javelin and 80 meter hurdles and finishing second in the high jump.

Miss Shirley cleared the new world record height of 5 feet 5¼ inches yesterday to win. Miss Didrikson, in second place at 5-5, also was well over the former world mark but lost her chance to win when her final jump was ruled out as a technical "dive," in violation of the rules.

The American girl sprinters wound up the program by gaining a close victory over Canada in the world record time of 47 seconds flat for their 400-meter relay.

JUMPING JAP

Here's a rising son of the Land of the Rising Sun in the person of Chuhei Nambu, winner of the hop-step-and-jump at the Olympic Games and Japan's first Olympic champion. The agile Jap established a new world record of fifty-one feet, seven inches.

EX-LEGION TO PLAY LOGAN TUESDAY

The Marion Ex-Legion baseball team will play the Logan Cheringtons of Logan, Ohio, Thursday afternoon at the Shovel athletic field. The game is called for 2 p. m.

Earl Castner is expected to take the mound for the Ex-Legion team against the Logan combine. The Logan team will average 20 years of age. John Vestal and B. Greenland will be on hand to help Castner with the pitching should it be necessary.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Ted Lyons, White Sox, and Tony Freitas, Athletics—Former granted seven hits and outpitched Bob Grove; latter allowed only three hits as A's and White Sox split two games.

Earl Averill, Indians — Solved Senator pitching for home run, two triples, double and single in double-header.

Babe Ruth, Yankees — Clouted 31st homer, triple and two singles in first game against Browns.

Lon Warneke, Cubs—Gave only five hits and won 17th victory.

Erno Lombardi, Reds—His home run and two singles drove in five runs against Dodgers.

Ed Brandt and Ben Cantwell, Braves—Their pitching whipped Pirates twice.

CALEDONIA WINNER OVER HYATTS, 5-2

Caledonia remained in the running for a possible share in the Heart of Ohio league title yesterday by defeating Hyatts 5-2 on the Caledonia diamond. A victory next week over Delaware would put the Marion county team in a tie for the top.

Burgraff, brilliant Caledonia pitcher, struck out 14 Hyatts batters and held them to four hits.

Batteries and score by innings:
Hyatts .... 000 000 200—2 ?
Caledonia .... 020 012 00x—5 ?

Hyatts, Weaver and Johnson; Caledonia, Burgraff and Crider.

BOWER IS CHAMP

Wins Country Club Golf Title by Beating Rowley 6-5.

Taking a big lead over his opponent Cliff Rowley in the first holes of the match, K. M. Bower captured the Country club golf championship yesterday afternoon in the 36-hole final match. Bower won by a 6-5 margin, holding a big advantage all the way.

R. J. LaRonde won the second flight finals of the club championship tournament by default. Fred Warner, his scheduled opponent, failed to appear for the match.

Shoots Hole-in-One at Country Club

CARVE out another niche in the golfers' hall of fame.

Don Howard, of 423 Summit street, who plays golf as an avocation and serves as secretary-treasurer of the Huber Manufacturing company as a vocation, shot a hole-in-one yesterday on the No. 6 hole of the Marion Country club course. Howard, playing in the company of C. O. Brown of Vine street plunked in his ace shot with a No. 4 iron.

"More luck than anything else," Howard suggested, when asked for information concerning the ace. "It was a clean hit ball that lit on the green and rolled into the cup, that's all," he said.

That's enough, would be the answer of most golfers.

TOURNAMENT FIELD CUT TO NINE TEAMS

Five More Teams Eliminated in Second Day of Softball Meet at Lincoln Park.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

Five more entries in the Ohio championship softball tournament were eliminated yesterday afternoon as the second day's games were played at Lincoln park. Nine teams remain in the running for the tournament championship and four of these will be eliminated next Sunday when another four games will be played.

The farther the tournament advances the more apparent it becomes that the winner will have to play super ball to capture the honors. Four more teams stepped out yesterday and gave notice by sterling performances that they would have to be considered as possible tourney winners. Of the nine teams remaining in the tourney there is not more than one which might not go through to the championship.

Jenners Advance

The Jenner Lunch team of Marion booked to play the first game against Willard was awarded the game without playing yesterday when Willard failed to put in an appearance at scheduled time. The Jenner nine will now play Springfield next Sunday as its first opponent.

In the first contest yesterday, Springfield proved entirely too strong for the Toledo Gulf Refiners. Red Meier, the big Springfield pitcher struck out 20 Toledo batters and allowed only three hits. The first 12 men to face him struck out. Until Carl Belhofer banged a homer in the seventh Meier had pitched 123 consecutive scoreless innings. The Springfield batters clubbed out 10 hits.

Brook's Morticians, the colored Columbus combine, put on a first class display of how to play softball when they took a 5-1 decision from Walters & Diebennell of Marion in the second start. The colored boys pounded the ball hard all through the game. Dudley, Brook's star flinger, held the Marion club to four hits and kept the four well scattered. The fielding of the Brooks team was as good or better than any seen in the tourney to date.

Fremont Looks Good

The Hodes-Zink company of Fremont turned loose another of those pitchers you read about but seldom see in a game with the Belmont Caskey company of Columbus and the result was a 5-0 victory for the upstate combine. The Columbus boys were completely subdued by the lightning tosses of Rohr, the Fremont mound artist. While Rohr was limiting the Belmont team to three hits, his mates were pounding two pitchers all over the lot for 11 hits and five runs. The Fremont team looms as one of the toughest of the meet.

The Columbus Safety Cabs, minus the services of Doc Stith, went on to win from the Columbus High-Frank garage in the final game of the afternoon by a 9-3 margin. Stith, just having recovered from one accident, was injured again last week and shelved for a week. He is expected to pitch in the Safety Cab's next appearance here.

The High-Frank team might have beaten the Safety Cabs if they could have found some way to stop the terrific clubbing of the green shirted Cabbies. Fourteen hits, including two homers, one triple and one double rallied off the Safety Cabs' bats. Meanwhile Corder was limiting the Garagemen to eight well scattered safeties.

Batteries and score by innings:
Springfield ...... 200 000 0—5 10 ?
Toledo .... 000 000 1—1 3 ?

Springfield, Meier and Brecht; Toledo, Shelton and McCombs.

Brook's .... 220 100 0—5 7 0
Walters & Die. 000 000 0—1 4 1

Brook's, Dudley and [illegible]; Walters & Diebennell: W. Walters, Kellogg and R. [illegible]

Belmont Caskey ... [illegible] 0—0 3 1
Hodes-Zink ...... [illegible] 5—5 11 ?

Belmont, [illegible], Whipple and [illegible]; Hodes-Zink, Rohr and [illegible].

High-Frank ... [illegible] 1—3 8 ?
Safety Cabs ... [illegible] x—9 14 ?

High-Frank, [illegible], Saxby, H. [illegible] and [illegible]; Safety Cabs, Corder and [illegible].

PROTEST DENIED

Following the 5-0 defeat by the Hodes-Zink company of Fremont the Belmont Caskey company of Columbus filed a protest with the tournament manager, blaming the loss on the fact that Rohr, Fremont pitcher was permitted to pitch the game in spiked shoes.

The protest, however, was not allowed. The Fremont combine will return next Sunday to meet the Brook's Morticians, Columbus colored team, in what should be one of the fastest games of the entire tournament. It will be one of four games next Sunday.

CAREY WINNER OF CLASH WITH TIFFIN

Don Donelson's semi pros of Carey turned in a 12-6 victory yesterday over the Kinsey & France team of Tiffin in a free hitting contest at Carey.

The semi pros will play a return game with the strong Celina team next Sunday at Carey.

Batteries and score by innings:
Tiffin ...... 120 002 100— 6 7 6
Carey ...... 101 250 21x— 12 12 3

Tiffin, Myers, Krupp, Yoerist and Yochum; Carey, Ferner, Keckler and Orians.

MORRAL RALLIES TO DEFEAT PLEASANT

Playing one of its best games of the season the Pleasant team of the Heart of Ohio baseball league put up a great scrap against Morral yesterday afternoon before finally succumbing by an 8-7 score. It took a two run Morral rally in the final inning to defeat Pleasant. Humphries went the route for Pleasant.

Batteries and score by innings:
Morral .... [illegible]—8 [illegible]
Pleasant ...... [illegible]—7 [illegible]

Morral, Barker, Powell and Koontz; Pleasant, Humphries and B. Brown.

POST SEASON GAMES MAY BE NECESSARY TO DECIDE WINNERS

Softball Sked Starts Final Week Today with Titles Still in Doubt.

As the regular schedule for the four city softball leagues swings into its final week today, it appears almost certain that at least a share of the league championships will be decided in post-season play-offs of postponed contests. It is even quite possible that when the postponed games are played off that some of the league titles will still be without a full fledged owner. In this case those teams which may be deadlocked for the top will have to battle it out against each other for the crown.

The schedule of games this week, apparently offers nothing above the average, at least on paper. However, with so much depending on the results, some upsets are very likely to take place. Consequently, fandom is likely to go through a rather exciting week.

Today the St. Paul Lutherans will attempt to throw a wrench into the machinery of the No. 1 church loop when they meet the Epworth Seniors. No one gives the Lutherans much of a chance to win but the Methodists may find themselves facing much tougher opposition than expected. They will play at Lincoln park. The Christian Seniors again enjoy an off week.

On Tuesday Trinity will try to stop the fast-moving Irish and John Clark's Epworth No. 1 boys will cross bats with the Presbyterians. Either the Irish or Presbies are going to win the league title so both of these games will draw a lot of attention.

Having gone through a rather drab season, the Huber company will attempt Thursday at Garfield park to avenge previous beatings by handing the Gasco a surprise defeat. A victory for the Gasco will assure them of nothing worse than a tie but a Huber might put the race out in the open again, depending on the outcome of the Shovel-Augenstein A. C. game at Lincoln park.

The K. of P. lodge team has a chance Friday to clinch nothing worse than tie for the Commercial league gonfalon by beating the Masonic lodge, a feat which on paper does not look overly tough but which may prove much more difficult than it appears. Anyway, the game will headline the day's program and will be played at Garfield park. Should the Kappas lose on the same day to Prospect undisputed possession of the flag would be assured the K. of P., assuming they can beat the Masons.

On Sunday, the third days' schedule of the Ohio state championship tournament will be played at Lincoln park with four games on the books, starting at 1 p. m.

MARION BEATEN BY GALION NET TEAM

Marion was able to take only three out of 12 tennis matches yesterday from Galion and lost the inter-city court battle by a 12-3 score. The matches were played on the Shovel athletic field courts.

Marion players were: W. E. Long, Art Yazel, John Smith, John Rush, Charles Oburn, Paul Selter, Kenneth Crawford, T. M. Cunningham, Bob Wolfinger, Miss Ruth Starr and Miss Mildred Hollandshead.

The Marion team will play a return match with Galion at Galion on Sunday, Aug. 21.

Equipoise Entered.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8—Equipoise, C. V. Whitney's handicap champion, which returned to action with a victory at Saratoga Saturday, will come west for the Hawthorne gold cup Aug. 27, according to word from Trainer Fred Hopkins. Mate, A. C. Bostwick's four-year-old, also will start in the $25,000 added weight for age feature.

RURAL TEAMS CLASH FOR DIAMOND CROWN

Green Camp, Kirkpatrick, Pleasant Win in Little World Series.

Kirkpatrick, Green Camp and Pleasant racked up victories Saturday afternoon at the Shovel athletic field as the Marion county softball league's second annual Little World series for the 1932 rural championship got under way. Kirkpatrick downed Waldo 9-5, Green Camp turned back Caledonia 13-1 and Pleasant defeated the Marion County Children's home, 12-1.

The series will continue next Saturday afternoon with three more games. Each team must be defeated twice to be eliminated. Next week's games call for Kirkpatrick and Green Camp to cross bats on diamond No. 1, Waldo to play Pleasant on diamond No. 1, and children's home to play Caledonia on diamond No. 3.

Batteries and score by innings of Saturday's games:
Waldo .... [illegible]—5

BULLS AGAIN PUSH STOCKS

Profit-Taking Serves Only To Interrupt Upsweep of Prices.

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, Aug. 8—The stock market again charged forward, smashing all opposition today, in a display of bullishness which much of Wall Street had thought might not be seen again in years.

Securities and commodities again reacted upon each other to their mutual advantage, cotton leading the staples with an upsurge of more than $2 a bale. The bond market was firm, but was again overshadowed by the spectacular performance of junior securities

The stock market was swept by successive waves of profit-taking, but they merely served to interrupt the upsweep of prices. Declines of 1 to 3 in the first half hour were quickly regained, and a similar setback at noon was short lived. Extreme gains of 4 to 8 points were chalked up in such issues as American Telephone, Dupont, American Can, Case, Consolidated Gas, Peoples Gas, Northern Pacific Western Union, Norfolk & Western, Union Pacific and Santa Fe.

Issues up 2 to 3 or more included U. S. Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, North American, New York Central, Pennsylvania, New Haven, Public Service of N. J., Johns Manville, Safeway, Penney, Coca Cola, Allied Chemical, Continental Can, Bethlehem Steel and others. Oils and coppers, however, were not conspicuous in the advance. Homestake Mining was a soft spot, off 6 points.

The rails, many of which have already more than doubled in price since the list turned upward a months ago, continued to lead the furious advance. In the face of the fact that latest earnings statements showed that the majority of the carriers were failing to earn their fixed charges, and that the latest carloadings reports have failed to reflect important improvement, traders were obviously willing to believe that the determined efforts of the railroad executives to cooperate to reduce their expenditures, together with a brightened prospect of general business improvement in the autumn, justified confidence in the ability of the stronger roads to restore their earning power. Stocks of coal carriers, and some of the roads which expect to have large crops to move, were particularly strong.

Stolen Car Found.

A Chevrolet coach stolen July 29 from V. M. Dutton of 293 Bellevue avenue was recovered last weekend north of Findlay. Dutton brought the car back to Marion yesterday after authorities at Findlay had found it in a ditch north of there. It had been driven 250 miles, and had been stripped of the license plates, tools and a robe.

After years of work a New York scientist has perfected a motor meter to be installed in an automobile dashboard to indicate the amount of fuel wasted and the excessive formation of carbon monoxide gas.

WHEAT SCORES LATE ADVANCE

Market Sweeps Above Saturday Finish as Speculative Demand Increases.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Aug. 8—Sweeping upward with the largest general speculative demand witnessed in months, wheat made substantial price gains today, especially in the late dealings.

Buyers of wheat found incentive in pronounced strength of the cotton market and securities. Supplies of wheat afloat were reduced to less than one month's needs for Europe, whereas the United States visible supply increase for the week was less than 1,000,000 bushels against more than 8,000,000 bushels increase a year ago.

Wheat closed firm, 1⅜@1⅝ above Saturday's finish, corn ¾@1⅛ up, oats, ½@⅝ advanced, and provisions showing a rise of 17 to 25 cents.

Provisions went upward with cereals.

DIES ON MEAT HOOK
By International News Service
LONGMONT, Colo.—Blood poisoning resulting from a terrible ordeal caused the death of Conrad Leeback, 39, a farmer living near here. Leeback hung helpless on a meat hook for half an hour. He was storing goods on a high shelf when his left arm caught on the meat hook. He swung helpless in the air for 30 minutes before an employe rescued him.
